Opioid Response Network

Justice, Corrections and Medicine—Building Collaboration Across Systems

OpioidResponseNetwork.org
Making Real Change Happen.

WE MUST WORK TOGETHER AND LEARN FROM ONE ANOTHER TO MAKE REAL AND LASTING CHANGE.

Whether in a healthcare setting or in a courtroom, a correctional facility, or a police station, we have witnessed the toll substance disorders have had on society. Each day those on the frontlines are dealing with the opioid and stimulant use disorder crisis.

We must act together to address this public health and public safety priority using the latest science and evidence-based approaches.

Building trust across justice, corrections and medical systems to address the opioid and stimulant crisis is vital.

ORN Collaborating Organizations

- American Academy of Addiction Psychiatry
- Addiction Technology Transfer Center Network at the University of Missouri - Kansas City
- American Association for the Treatment of Opioid Dependence
- Association of Prosecuting Attorneys
- American Probation and Parole Association
- Cicatelli Associates Inc.
- Columbia University Department of Psychiatry
- Major County Sheriffs of America
- National Center for State Courts
- National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges
- National Council for Mental Wellbeing
- National District Attorneys Association
- National Sheriff’s Association
- Police Assisted Addiction and Recovery Initiative
- The National Judicial College
ORN Collaborating Organizations

- American Academy of Addiction Psychiatry
- Addiction Technology Transfer Center Network at the University of Missouri - Kansas City
- American Association for the Treatment of Opioid Dependence
- Association of Prosecuting Attorneys
- American Probation and Parole Association
- Cicatelli Associates Inc.
- Columbia University Department of Psychiatry
- Major County Sheriffs of America
- National Center for State Courts
- National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges
- National Council for Mental Wellbeing
- National District Attorneys Association
- National Sheriff’s Association
- Police Assisted Addiction and Recovery Initiative
- The National Judicial College

Making Real Change Happen.

WE MUST WORK TOGETHER AND LEARN FROM ONE ANOTHER TO MAKE REAL AND LASTING CHANGE.

Whether in a healthcare setting or in a courtroom, a correctional facility, or a police station, we have witnessed the toll substance disorders have had on society. Each day those on the frontlines are dealing with the opioid and stimulant use disorder crisis.

We must act together to address this public health and public safety priority using the latest science and evidence-based approaches.

Building trust across justice, corrections and medical systems to address the opioid and stimulant crisis is vital.
Our Stakeholders:

- Provide services to individuals with complex behavioral health needs, including substance use disorders and co-occurring psychiatric disorders to assist communities.

- Work in partnership and are well positioned to assist communities.

- Seek to align missions and share responsibility across systems to support effective collaborations.

- Support the need for collaboration that deepens our understanding of one another.

- Identify opportunities to share resources and coordinate efforts to reduce recidivism and keep communities safe and individuals healthy.
Our Stakeholders:

- Provide services to individuals with complex behavioral health needs, including substance use disorders and co-occurring psychiatric disorders to assist communities.

- Work in partnership and are well positioned to assist communities.

- Seek to align missions and share responsibility across systems to support effective collaborations.

- Support the need for collaboration that deepens our understanding of one another.

- Identify opportunities to share resources and coordinate efforts to reduce recidivism and keep communities safe and individuals healthy.
ORN: Who We Are.

The Opioid Response Network (ORN) is your resource for taking fast action to address opioid and stimulant use disorders. ORN provides training and education that is evidence-based designed to meet your needs and at no cost to you. ORN has...

- 800+ consultants with expertise in prevention, treatment and recovery actively working with us and hundreds more ready to use as needed.

- 40+ ORN partner organizations, nationally recognized in medicine, justice/law, recovery and prevention.

Our audience includes states, cities, organizations, health professionals, the justice system, law enforcement and even individuals.

Opioid and stimulant use disorders are preventable and treatable medical conditions. Our goal is to end this healthcare crisis that has impacted too many lives and communities for far too long.

And together, we can.
ORN: Who We Are.

The Opioid Response Network (ORN) is your resource for taking fast action to address opioid and stimulant use disorders. ORN provides training and education that is evidence-based designed to meet your needs and at no cost to you. ORN has...

• 800+ consultants with expertise in prevention, treatment and recovery actively working with us and hundreds more ready to use as needed.

• 40+ ORN partner organizations, nationally recognized in medicine, justice/law, recovery and prevention.

Our audience includes states, cities, organizations, health professionals, the justice system, law enforcement and even individuals.

Opioid and stimulant use disorders are preventable and treatable medical conditions. Our goal is to end this healthcare crisis that has impacted too many lives and communities for far too long.

And together, we can.
What We Do.

ORN is a collaborative effort providing training and education to identify ways to prevent, treat and support recovery for opioid and stimulant use disorders. Some examples of our work include:

1. PREVENTION
ORN helps you help others in educating communities and providing the most effective training and educational resources for: 1) pain management, 2) increasing awareness of evidence based practices, 3) anti stigma campaigns, and 4) the use of naloxone, a medication for reviving individuals from opioid overdose.

2. TREATMENT
ORN offers training on the three FDA-approved medications for treating opioid use disorder—methadone, extended-release naltrexone and sublocade—and can offer guidance on treatment in rural areas and Tribal communities, and use of telehealth services to increase access to treatment.

3. RECOVERY
ORN offers training on recovery coaching models (e.g. coaches working alongside police) and on how to create peer-to-peer recovery services in communities, healthcare settings and correctional facilities.

What are your needs and how can we help?
What We Do.

ORN is a collaborative effort providing training and education to identify ways to prevent, treat and support recovery for opioid and stimulant use disorders. Some examples of our work include:

1. PREVENTION
ORN helps you help others in educating communities and providing the most effective training and educational resources for: 1) pain management, 2) increasing awareness of evidence based practices, 3) anti stigma campaigns, and 4) the use of naloxone, a medication for reviving individuals from opioid overdose.

2. TREATMENT
ORN offers training on the three FDA-approved medications for treating opioid use disorder—methadone, extended-release naltrexone and sublocade—and can offer guidance on treatment in rural areas and Tribal communities, and use of telehealth services to increase access to treatment.

3. RECOVERY
ORN offers training on recovery coaching models (e.g. coaches working alongside police) and on how to create peer-to-peer recovery services in communities, healthcare settings and correctional facilities.

What are your needs and how can we help?
We Can Work Together to:

- Improve information sharing across systems by bringing together multidisciplinary stakeholders to address substance use disorders.
- End stigma through targeted education and messaging campaigns.
- Provide cross system training and education.
- Increase understanding of evidence-based approaches in prevention, treatment and recovery.
- Cultivate and train champions from all systems at the state level and build partnerships to address opioid and stimulant use disorders.
- Treat people with substance use disorders in an effort to avoid justice involvement when possible.
- Help reduce post-incarceration drug overdoses and maintain sobriety.
- Increase case planning skills to effectively supervise people with opioid use, stimulant use and other substance use disorders in the community.

We have the network to make change happen.

TOGETHER, WE CAN OVERCOME THIS CRISIS.

OpioidResponseNetwork.org | e: orn@aaap.org | p: 401-270-5900

Funding for this initiative was made possible (in part) by grant no. 1H79TI083343 from SAMHSA. The views expressed in written conference materials or publications and by speakers and moderators do not necessarily reflect the official policies of the Department of Health and Human Services; nor does mention of trade names, commercial practices, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. Government.
We Can Work Together to:

- Improve information sharing across systems by bringing together multidisciplinary stakeholders to address substance use disorders.

- End stigma through targeted education and messaging campaigns.

- Provide cross system training and education.

- Increase understanding of evidence-based approaches in prevention, treatment and recovery.

- Cultivate and train champions from all systems at the state level and build partnerships to address opioid and stimulant use disorders.

- Treat people with substance use disorders in an effort to avoid justice involvement when possible.

- Help reduce post-incarceration drug overdoses and maintain sobriety.

- Increase case planning skills to effectively supervise people with opioid use, stimulant use and other substance use disorders in the community.