

Meet the Opioid Response Network Indigenous Communities Response Team

Opioid
Response
Network

The Opioid Response Network's Indigenous Communities Response Team works with Tribal Opioid Response grantees and Native communities on efforts addressing opioid and stimulant use disorders. We can provide educational resources and training opportunities that are locally meaningful, culturally relevant and considerate of the strengths and traumas that affect Native community wellness. Dedicated Technology Transfer Specialists are located throughout the country. This team is comprised of Tribal professionals and strong allies with significant experience working with and within Native communities.
