

Opioid
Response
Network

Know Your Naloxone Tools for Tribes

Learn more about naloxone and how to ensure it's getting into the hands that need it most in your community or tribal community or Urban Indigenous Health Program.

- Discuss naloxone mapping and saturation as a community tool
- Illustrate what the public health emergency is regarding illicit opioid overdoses
- Distinguish between opioids and fentanyl
- Articulate the properties of naloxone, how it works and its impact on reducing overdose deaths
- Recognize and respond to an opioid overdose
- Determine where and how to access naloxone kits
- Illustrate how to evaluate naloxone distribution in your community
- Provide additional opioid overdose and naloxone related resources
- Address the stigma that society has around addiction

Build Capacity

- Request a Training The Trainer (TTT)
- Train people in your community to deliver the training, "Know Your Naloxone Tools For Tribes: Naloxone Training For Tribal Communities"
- ORN is looking to expand the number of people who are trained to deliver this content in their local communities

Submit a request via our website and write "I am looking to hold a Know Your Naloxone Tools for Tribes training in my community."

Visit OpioidResponseNetwork.org.
Email Samantha@aaap.org for more information.

Funding for this initiative was made possible (in part) by grant no. 1H79TI088037 from SAMHSA. The views expressed in written conference materials or publications and by speakers and moderators do not necessarily reflect the official policies of the Department of Health and Human Services; nor does mention of trade names, commercial practices, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. Government.